

Job opportunity - American University of Cairo (AUC)

Company Description

Founded in 1919, AUC moved to a new 270-acre state-of-the-art campus in New Cairo in 2008. The University also operates in its historic downtown facilities, offering cultural events, graduate classes, and continuing education. Student housing is available in New Cairo. Among the premier universities in the region, AUC is Middle States accredited; its Engineering programs are accredited by ABET, its Chemistry program is accredited by the Canadian Society for Chemistry, and the School of Business is accredited by AACSB, AMBA and EQUIS. The AUC Libraries contain the largest English-language research collection in the region and are an active and integral part of the University's pursuit of excellence in all academic and scholarly programs. AUC is an English-medium institution; eighty-five percent of the students are Egyptian and the rest include students from nearly ninety countries, principally from the Middle East, Africa and North America. Faculty salary and rank are based on qualifications and professional experience. According to AUC policies and procedures, all faculty are entitled to generous benefits.

Job Description:

The Department of Political Science invites applications for a fixed term contract (five years renewable) position in Development/Research Methods at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor level beginning in Fall 2017. The course load is normally three courses per semester, including teaching in the MA program. Applicants should have a research and teaching experience in development work (proposal writing, project monitoring and evaluation is desirable), and NGOs. Strong preference will be given to teaching a research methodology course (quantitative and qualitative). Additional expertise is desirable in the political economy of Arab Middle East Countries and Africa. The search committee is eager to review applications of individuals with demonstrated excellence in teaching, and an interest in living and working in the Middle East.

Requirements

A PhD is required at time of appointment. Successful candidates should have an ongoing program of research and publication. Teaching experience is preferred. Responsibilities include undergraduate as well as graduate teaching, an active program of research and publications, and service to the Department and the University.

Position is open until filled.
